

Don't let your dog/pet be a crash-test dummy!

Why you should wear a seat belt
and crate your dog in a Vari-Kennel Crate!
(or any crate for that matter)

(Linking to this page is only granted upon written permission from Wachusett American Eskimos)

Click HERE for permission.

To view larger images of the photos on this page, click HERE.

The images below show why driver's and passengers should wear seat belts and why your dog(s) should be in crates while traveling...

The images were taken the following day after a near fatal accident when the driver of the vehicle was driving hydroplaned on I-80 Eastbound in New Jersey at 40/45 miles an hour

- did a "360"
- missed a bridge abutment by 50 feet on one side
- a guardrail by 50 feet on the other side
- rolled the vehicle
- hit a tree and
- WALKED AWAY UNINJURED

The two dogs (two American Eskimo Dogs) were safely kenneled in separate #300 Vari-Kennel crates...

One in a Deluxe Vari-Kennel; the other in a regular (beige-colored) Vari-Kennel.

You can see from one of the images that the beige crate did get "busted," but the dog in that crate did survive.

All photographs, backgrounds and graphics on this page are copyrighted by Wachusett American Eskimos and psswebdezinez 2004 and are not to be taken and used elsewhere without written permission.

If you would like us to create your webpage, please at pssweb@earthlink.net.

Both dogs were shown that weekend in New Jersey and at the AEDCA 2003 National Specialty in Macungie, Pennsylvania...

"The boys" didn't miss a beat, and in fact, the class dog

- took a 3 point major at the NJ show
- took Best of Breed in Futurity AND
- 1st place standard puppy (9-12 mos) at the Specialty!

You can see the beige Vari-Kennel sticking out of the rear window of the van in the above image... the only thing that survived was the the dog and the crate door!

In the image to right you can get a slightly better view of the beige crate ----->

All photographs, backgrounds and graphics on this page are copyrighted by Wachusett American Eskimos and psswebdezinez 2004 and are not to be taken and used elsewhere without written permission.

If you would like us to create your webpage, please at pssweb@earthlink.net.